Fletcher Building's national retailer PlaceMakers has warned customers of a 10 per cent price rise for all James Hardie products next year due to increased freight costs.

Society's path to Net Zero is the most challenging joint enterprise that we've ever faced. History is full of advances achieved through people throwing energy at problems.

When we talk about depleting natural resources, sand doesn't seem to be high on the list of sustainable materials. Zurich, Switzerland is using 98 per cent recycled concrete for its building projects.

Valerie Slater, a youth prison abolitionist with Rise For Youth, said that more compensation might encourage court appointed attorneys to spend the necessary time on a case to provide equitable representation.

When we talk about depleting natural resources, sand doesn't seem to be high on the list of sustainable materials.